

Engineering, Surveying, and Consulting Services

ABOUT ULTEIG

From urban infrastructure, building systems, airports, and highways to energy, land, and water, we help people build and sustain the systems that support vital communities. Ulteig is an employee-owned company that delivers comprehensive engineering, planning, and surveying services to a wide range of public and private clients.

Whether our client is a municipality in the Midwest ensuring clean water for their community or a global energy company delivering power across hundreds of miles to the people in a major urban center, we believe in the power of our people working together with our clients to solve challenges and realize shared goals.

We continually strive for excellence for our company, our professionals, and our clients. Ulteig is ranked number 207 on the Engineering News-Record's annual Top 500 US Design Firms list.

SECTORS

Ulteig is a multidiscipline, full-service firm that offers an array of services — in-house. While our experience spans the nation — and the globe — we maintain a small-company feel by providing our clients such advantages as a single point-of-contact, flexibility to conform to their methods/standards, and an emphasis on customer service. We practice in industry sectors that allow us to better serve our clients within the highly specialized markets. Few companies can match our ability to leverage resources and capabilities across these experienced sectors:

- Building Services
- Civil Services
- Energy Services
- Land Services
